LABOR LEGISLATION.

Raleigh Times.

Organized labor leaders are wondering where they are at now that the end of the congress session is beginning to approach. They are getting restless in the situation in which they find proposed legislation for the benefit of labor. At the beginning of the session they had great hopes of accomplishing much and getting a number of their important bills put through. Now that hope is waning. They are getting suspicious that their bills are being whipsawed between the two houses, and that when the session is over they will find comparatively little has been done to pass legislation which labor for years has been insisting on. A glance at the legislative situation in the two houses shows that in spite of the general feeling that much would be done in the way of labor legislation when congress met last December there has not been a great deal accomplished. That is, there is not much in the way of laws wanted by labor that is actually within sight of the statute books. This, say the labor leaders, is what counts. They say it is all well and good to get measures out of committees, but if at the end of the long session of congress they are not passed the chances are they will not pass in the short session, and then in the next congress the whole thing will have to be done over again. The anti-injunction bill has passed the house, but there is no sign it will ever pass the senate this session. The convict labor bill is in the same situation. The workman's compensation bill has passed the senate, but there is little hope of it passing the house this session. The department of labor bill is being urged in the house and organized labor is strong for it, but there seems to be no hope it will get through both houses this session. The bill putting fraternal and trades union publications on the same basis as commercial publications has passed the house, but has a stiff opposition in the senate. Passage of the government employees' compensation bill is unlikely. Clayton's bill for travel by jury in cases of indirect contempt, and the industrial educational bill seems to stand no chance of passing this session. Legislation for the relief of seamen may be brought about, and there will be strong pressure to crowd it through in view of the Titanic disaster.

The prospects appear good for the passage of the eight-hour bill. If this is accomplished it will be a long step forward for organized labor, and unorganized labor, also for that matter. It seems likely to be the one great achievement of the season in behalf of labor. Passage of the children's bureau bill and the bill to prohibit manufacture of the phosphorous match, both of which are through, marks a step ahead, though the bills are not deemed by organized labor as of primary importance, although helpful. The provision against the "bag rule" for postal employees in the postoffice bill is also considered an important step ahead, though it remains to be seen what the senate will do about it. The expectation is that the senate will pass it, though opposition is beginning to spring up. The eight-hour provision for clerks and carriers in the postal service will go through both houses. This is a step forward for labor.

The industrial commission bill is pending both houses. If it passes as to which there is a good deal of uncertainty, it will mean

The Jackson Training School.

Charity and Children.

In company with a brother beloved, Mr. John B. Sherill, the newspaper genius of Concord, it was the pleasure of the writer to pay a visit on Wednesday of last week to the Jackson Training School. It was a revelation to us, and deep as was our interest in the institution previous to this visit, a new sense of its value to the State was impressed upon us. The location is ideal. It is built on a rocky ridge with a wide sweep of vision on all sides a couple of miles south of Concord. Only two of the houses are entirely completed, but two others are well on the way. One of these, the administration building, is admirable in design and is being substantially built. Every dollar expended in the buildings was wisely spent. No house on the grounds will have to be torn down. Personal cleanliness is rigidly required. The water supply is ample and bathing facilities are abundant and complete. A good school is maintained, and one half the boys are in school in the morning and the other half in the afternoon. A farm of some two hundred acres affords excellent opportunity for giving the lads the best training in the world. The play ground feature is not ignored, and a good ball ground is provided where, at the present time the boys find amusement. The institution is most fortunate in having at its head Mr. Walter Thompson who is not only deeply in love with his work but who is extremely well qualified by nature as well as by training for the place he fills so well. Mr. Thompson loves boys, and knows exactly how to sympathize with them. They are his companions and friends. While his nature is most kindly there is no foolishness about him. He despises soft and slushy sentiment, but believes in the development of the manly in boy nature. His wide experience in the school room coupled with his uncommon common sense admirably qualify him for the management of this great institution. And the boys! We thanked God as we saw the strong and sturdy fellows who had side-stepped, hard at work in honorable and useful employment and surrounded by influences wholesome and pure and that point the way to creditable and honorable citizenship. The State in all its history has never expended its funds more wisely than in the few thousands it is putting into this Training School, and the "Kings Daughters" have shown themselves worthy of the high name they bear in organizing this blessed agency of help for the helpless.

Man Coughs and Breaks Ribs.

After a frightful coughing spell a man in Neenah, Wis., felt terrible pains in his side and his doctor found two ribs had been broken. What agony Dr. King's New Discovery would have saved him. A few tea spoonfuls ends a late cough, while persistent use routs obstinate coughs expels stubborn colds or neals weak sore lungs. "I feel sure its a God send to humanity," writes Mrs. Effie Morton, Columbia, Mo. "for I believe I would have consumption today, if I had not used this great remedy." Its guaranteed to satisfy and you can get a free trial bottle for 50 cent or $1.00 size at all druggists.

an investigation into industrial conditions that will be valuable. Organized labor is lukewarm toward this proposition, however, because it is declared there has been enough investigation, and the time has come to act.

FOLEY'S KIDNEY PILLS

FOR BACKACHE, KIDNEY AND BLADDER

Will Build New Railroad From North Wilkesboro.

North Wilkesboro Special 27th to the Charlotte Observer.

For weeks the question of where the Yadkin River Railway would start from has been hanging in the balance, but North Wilkesboro gets it. A committee of citizens among whom were T. B. Finley and C. H. Cowles, members of the railroad committee, H. W. Horton, secretary of the board of trade, Genio Cardwell and J. D. Moore, backed by the live and progressive citizenship of North Wilkesboro, went over to Lenoir Thursday and closed the matter up and work has begun and will be pushed with all possible haste until the road is finished, at least as far as the 60,000 acre timber tract of Grandin Lumber Company. The road will then be within a few miles of Boone and it is expected that it will go on through Boone and beyond into east Tennessee.

The road will connect with the Southern at North Wilkesboro and follow the beautiful and fertile Yadkin valley, keeping on the north side of the Yadkin to Elkhorn, at or near which place the plant of the lumber company will build its band mill, extract plant and manufacturing town. From Elkhorn, the road will go across Cooks Gap in the Blue Ridge. This will make the Watauga and part of Ashe, which is without doubt the richest of the whole section, easily accessible and the people there who have hitherto had to haul their products 35 or 40 miles over rough roads to market, will reap the rich profits they have had to sacrifice in transportation expenses. It is the greatest grass-growing section in the United States. Watauga cabbage, as well many other garden products, have more than a State-wide reputation. Its timber and mineral resources will attract capital.

The railroad means that North Wilkesboro will be a natural manufacturing and trading center and a number of new factories are already prospecting with a view to localizing here.

North Wilkesboro being in the Yadkin valley where the biggest corn grows, with surrounding fertile table land suitable for small grain and general farming, and near by the famous apple of the Brushy mountains, has every reason to expect a more growth than ever in her history.

Ends Hunt For Rich Girl.

Often a hunt for a rich wife ends when the man meets a woman that uses Electric Bitters. Her strong nerves tell in a bright brain and even temper. Her peach bloom complexion and ruby lips result from her pure blood; her bright eyes from restful sleep; her elastic step from firm, free muscles, all telling of the health and strength Electric Bitters give a woman, and the freedom from indigestion, headache, fainting and dizzy spells they promote. Everywhere there is woman's favorite remedy. If weak or ailing try them. 50¢ at all druggists.

Mr. Kutt—My dear, I'm drunk. Its a pity you ever married me. I'm sorry for the poor children (hic) Now for the Lord's sake let me come to bed quietly.—Judge.

They Put an End to It.

Charles Sable, 30 Cook St. Rochester, N. Y. says he recommends Foley Kidney Pills at every opportunity because they gave him prompt relief from a bad case of kidney trouble that had long bothered him. Such a recommendation coming from Mr. Sable, is direct and convincing evidence of the great curative qualities of Foley Kidney Pills. For sale by all dealers.

FOLEY'S URINO LAXATIVE

FOR STOMACH TROUBLE AND CONSTIPATION

Seeing Ghosts.

Asheville Citizen.

The dire predictions that are made in connection with the probable nomination and election of Theodore Roosevelt are based on something more than party prejudice, for the terrible visions are being drawn not by Democratic hands, but by those of President Taft and his cabinet officers. As matters now stand, the Taft managers cannot vote for Roosevelt with a clear conscience, for one and all declare that the greatest calamity that could befall the country would be the election of the third term. Therefore we are not surprised to read a report to the effect that in the event of Roosevelt's nomination a second Roosevelt ticket will be placed in the field.

It is argued by these Republicans, and with some show of truth, that this country is not yet ready for a monarchy such as Roosevelt would institute. Of course, such a claim may sound far fetched now, but in the light of some of Roosevelt's past expressions, and in view of the fact that he is denying the third term tradition the charge is worthy of consideration and notice. Roosevelt's defiance of the courts, his pronounced declarations in connection with the "recall of judicial decisions" and his contempt for the presidential office are merely delights on his vaunting ambitions.

In the prophecies now being indulged in by the leading lights of Taft's candidacy, and by Taft himself are to be regarded seriously the election of Theodore Roosevelt would cause our national flag, once regarded as the insignia of liberty and enlightenment, to become the emblem of oppression and despotism. The Constitution, the work of inspired brains ere the veil of a century had been lifted from eyes reflecting the light of patriotism, would be little more than a memory, and the doctrines of territorial aggrandizement would be the forerunners of the betrayal of our national principles.

From the utterances of our Republican advisers we are led to believe that if Roosevelt should be elected our boasted "government by the people" would become a by-word in the mouths of enlightened nations. The lust of commercial and personal gain would lure an ambitious executive to wield the bludgeon of war and international strife, and the country which gave birth to the Declaration of Independence would close its ears to the cry of weak and oppressed nations.

Mr. M. A. McLaughlin, 512 Jay St., LaCrosse, Wis., writes that she suffered all kinds of pains in her back and hips on account of kidney trouble and rheumatism. "I got some of Foley Kidney Pills and after taking them for a few days there was a wonderful change in my case for the pain entirely left my back and hips and I am thankful there is such a medicine as Foley Kidney Pills." For sale by all dealers.

Our past life is not past: it lives in at least two ways: "In due season we shall reap." Heaven lies hidden in our daily deed, even as the oak with all its centuries of growth and all its summer glory sleeps in the acorn cup.—Ex.

Mrs. Lela Loye, wife of Wiley Loye a farmer living near Covena, Ga., says: "I have taken Foley Kidney Pills and find them to be all you claim for them. They gave me almost instant relief when my kidneys were sluggish and inactive. I can cheerfully recommend them to all sufferers from kidney troubles." For sale by all dealers.

Children Cry FOR FLETCHER'S CASTORIA

Distanced By the Procession.

Dispatches from Aurora, Ill., tell of the death of a quaint character in that city who was known as a nonprogressive merchant. Away back in civil war time he owned a big store and did a large business. Five years after the war he was still prospering, but ten years later his store had become a curiosity shop and his trade was merely nominal and it so continued to the end.

In recent years few people entered the store, though the old merchant opened promptly at 7 o'clock and was on hand until in the evening waiting for the customers who never came. He was an eccentric individual who did not advertise and who failed to keep step with the progress of the times. Anybody could sell goods in civil war days but nobody can sell goods nowadays by civil war methods. When a merchant is behind the times his wide awake competitor inevitably takes away his trade. The day when a dry goods store can be conducted on the same general plan of a junk shop has passed. It is a certainty that the man who stands still while others are going ahead will not make much headway in his business. The merchant who does not advertise and who ignores all forms of publicity will soon be forgotten by the buying public.

The world moves and merchants and other people must needs move with it. Otherwise they will be run over by the procession and left hopelessly behind as was the old merchant who could not bring himself to adopt modern methods of merchandising.—Courier Journal.

Move On Now!

says a policeman to a street crowd, and whacks heads if it don't. "Move on now," says the big, harsh miner all pills to bowel congestion and suffering follows. Dr. King's New Life Pills don't bulldoze the bowels. They gently persuade them to right action, and health follows. 25¢ at all druggists.

MEXICAN MUSTANG LINIMENT

CURED A BAD SPAVIN.

Mr. B. H. Ivey, Marion, N.C., writes: "My horse had a very bad case of spavin and nothing did any good until I tried your Mustang Liniment. I rubbed the spavin frequently with the liniment and soon saw an improvement. I did this three or four times a day and my horse was completely cured. It is sure to cure if properly used."

MEXICAN MUSTANG LINIMENT

FOR HORNET STINGS.

Mr. S. J. Hudson, Newbern, N.C., writes: "I have used Mexican Mustang Liniment for different ailments and have found it an excellent liniment. At one time my mare was badly stung by hornets but your liniment quickly cured her. I have recommended it to others hundreds of times." 25¢. 50¢. $1 a bottle at Drug & Gen'l Stores.

Mexican Mustang Liniment

CURES SWINNEY.

Mr. R. S. Shelton, Hill, N.C., writes: "I used Mexican Mustang Liniment on a very valuable horse for swinney and it cured it. I always keep it in my stable and think it the best liniment for ribs and galls." It contains no alcohol and so cannot sting in case of open wounds or burns. Soothes and cools at once. Just try it.

MEXICAN MUSTANG LINIMENT

For BURNS AND BRUISES.

Mr. W. V. Clifton, Raleigh, N.C., writes: "I keep a bottle of Mustang Liniment in my house continually for first aid use. It is the finest thing in the world for Cuts, Burns and Bruises."
